

10 KEY POINTS WHEN SHARING DATA

1

Carry out DPIAs even when you are not legally obliged to do so

2

Best practice means having a data-sharing agreement in place between each party and data sharing considerations should be part of due diligence processes in relation to third parties, mergers and acquisitions

3

The principle of Accountability must be demonstrable by following key data protection principles

4

There must be at least one clear lawful basis for the sharing of data and you must ensure the lawfulness of sharing in general

5

Transparency, legitimacy and proportionality should all feature

6

Processing must be in a manner which ensures its security

7

There must be policies and procedures to allow data subjects to express their rights

8

Data can be shared in emergencies as long as it is necessary and proportionate to the requirement

9

Ethical factors should be considered alongside technical and legal factors

10

Data sharing under the Digital Economy Act 2017 must comply with DPL and codes of practice must comply with the Data Sharing Code of Practice